THE MAILS.—This morning we did not receive a single paper from Washington City, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, or New York—In short we received but two papers—the Chronicle and American, of Baltimore. We have, therefore, nothing later from Washington than what we published on Wednesday.

If Mr. Barry could spare enough time from his Bank accounts, and the calculations of interest on moneys "loaned of" the Manhattan and other banks, we would invite his atttention to the very regular failures of the mail.

Yesterday, we received one paper from New York, and none from Philadelphia—to day, none from either of those places.—If Mr. Barry should remain in office three years longer, it must be a daring man who will undertake to call order out of the confusion which will then exist.

Friday, January 17, 1834.

From the Norfolk Herald, January 10.

GREAT PUBLIC MEETING.

We give below the proceedings of the meeting held in this borough, on Wednesday last, "to take into consideration the subject of the removal, by the Executive, of the Public Deposits from the Bank of the United States;" and we may remark, that we never knew our citizens to set about any public business with greater earnestness, or go through it more triumphantly. Suffering from the operation of a most ill judged and fatal measure on the one hand, and justly alarmed for the safety of the Constitution and of their liberties, openly assailed by the Executive of the Union, on the other, they must indeed have been more or less than men to have felt indifferent to a proposition to make a public declaration of their grievances and a demand for redress. The meeting, we think, was more numerous than any we have ever seen assembled in Norfolk for deliberative purposes—the general belief is that the number exceeded 400. It may, however, suffice to say that the whole area of the Hall, the galleries and steps leading to them, were filled to overflowing, and many went away who had come late and could not get situations within hearing of the proceedings.

At 12 o'clock, on motion of Col. John S. Milson, the Hon. LITTLETON W. TAZEWELL was called to the Chair, and Jos. H. ROBERTSON, Esq., appointed Secretary. The meeting being organized, the distinguished citizen who presided, rose and addressed the assembled citizens for an hour and a half, during which he pursued the investigation of the important subject upon which the meeting was convened, in a strain of thrilling eloquence and with a force of argumentative and logical illustration, that utterly annihilated the false reasonings of the defenders of Executive usurpation, and laid bare to the comprehension of every mind the true causes of the public distress. His argument went straight forward to its object by a chain of reasoning most lucid, powerful, and conclusive in all its connections; it was indeed a masterly effort, and worthy the palmy days of the eminent orator and statesman from whom it emanated—evidencing that the weight of years has not impaired the energies of his "giant mind."—Throughout he was listened to with breathless attention—a pin fall might have been heard, so great was the silence of his auditors, save when, in the enthusiasm which he excited, it was interrupted by the "thunder of applause." There were those present who had heard Mr. Tazewell at the bar of the Supreme Court, in the Senate of the United States, and in the Convention of Virginia—in all of which he has won imperishable fame—and who give it as their deliberate opinion that this was his happiest effort.

We have abstained from attempting even a brief epitome of this inimitable speech, in the expectation that Mr. Tazewell will yield to a solicitation which, we understand, has been made to him, and gratify the wishes of his fellow citizens, by writing it out for the press.

At the suggestion of the Chairman, the Resolutions adopted by the Richmond meeting for the same object, were submitted. These resolutions, he remarked, accorded in every particular with the feelings and sentiments of this meeting, and as they could not be better expressed in other language, it would be mere affectation to vary a single word or letter.

The Chairman having concluded his address,

William H. McFarland, Esq. rose, and, after a few remarks, in which he did justice to the able manner in which the Chairman had discharged the duties devolved on him, offered and moved the adoption of the Preamble.

The question being about to be taken on the resolutions,

It was moved, by C. M. Braxton, Esq., and seconded, that the sense of the Meeting should be taken on the resolutions, separately. Mr. Braxton said he had attended the meeting for the purpose of expressing the opinion that the late removal of the Federal moneys from the U. S. Bank, to other depositories, was an unnecessary, unwise, and most injurious measure, which he deeply deplored, for many reasons; but that he could not agree, by his vote, to denounce as a tyrant, and a usurper, a man he had ever regarded as a firm and devoted patriot, though he believed that his judgment had, on some most important subjects, been governed by undue influences.

Mr. Braxton did not desire to excite discussion, but designed, by his motion, to enable himself to give his approbation to some, while he entered his dissent to others, of the resolutions proposed for adoption.—

At a meeting of the citizens of Norfolk Borough, held at the Court House, in pursuance of public notice, on Wednesday, the 8th January, 1834, to take into consideration the removal of the public deposits, by the President of the United States, Littleton Waller Tazewell, Esq., was called to the Chair, Joseph H. Robertson, appointed Secretary.

The Chairman having fully explained the objects of the meeting, Wm. H. McFarland, Esq. rose, and, after some remarks, submitted the following Preamble, as introductory to the resolutions adopted at the meeting of the citizens of Richmond, on the 26th ult.:

That there exist in our country, and have existed from the foundation of the Government, political parties, entertaining different opinions of the powers of the Federal Government, and the mode in which they have been, or should be administered, is neither to be denied or deplored. Party is the inseparable and beneficial attendant of free institutions, the unavoidable consequence of the diversity of human judgment, freely and independently exerted. Free Governments owe the purity of their administration to honest and independent parties, engendered by freedom of investigation. To destroy party spirit, is alike impracticable and undesirable. But there are points of union, matters of sentiment, and judgment common to all parties. The virtuous, intelligent, and patriotic of all political sects, concur in one common sentiment of devotion to public liberty, and reverence for the unsullied faith of our country. When these are endangered, patriotism and duty require that all minor differences should be silenced and forgotten. Party ceases to be the ally, and becomes the betrayer of public liberty, if it aims to produce division at a time when the united exertions of all good citizens are required to maintain it.

Such a crisis has arisen in our country. The moment has arrived when we are to decide, not whether the powers of the Federal Government are more or less restricted; but whether there be any restriction whatever on one department of it; not whether a measure of doubtful constitutionality, and questionable expediency shall be adopted or rejected, but whether all constitutionality and all expediency be reducible to executive decision. The measures of the President of the United States, in respect to the public treasure, assert a power, which, if yielded to the executive department, virtually destroys all constitutional limitation on its authority; substitutes the will of the Chief Magistrate for the law of the land; takes from public liberty its best security, by uniting in the same hand the public sword and the public purse, and silently, but effectually, subverts our constitutional government. We, therefore, the citizens of Norfolk Borough, now assembled, without distinction of party, not compromising, much less surrendering our opinions on all, or any of the matters on which diversities of judgment exist among us: believing an occasion has arisen when it is not only our right, but our duty, as freemen, publicly to express our opinions in relation to those measures, concurring in the opinion which has been so well expressed by our fellow citizens, recently assembled at Richmond, and adopting them.

[Here follow the resolutions adopted at the Richmond meeting, and which have heretofore appeared in the Chronicle, and in the Gazette.]

TARIFF ON COTTONS.

The resolution of the Senate, of Friday last, and the publications in the Newspapers on the same subject, may create the impression that some recent decision has been made by the Secretary of the Treasury, highly injurious to the manufacturers of Cotton. As such an impression would naturally create uneasiness and alarm among a numerous class of our citizens, whose interests would be affected, we have taken pains to inform ourselves upon the subject, and take the first opportunity of laying before our readers the result of our inquiries.

As long ago as last April, a circular letter was issued from the Department, stating the construction which was placed on the compromise bill of the last session; and pointing out the manner in which the duties were to be calculated and reduced. This letter was published at the time in the newspapers of the commercial cities. Recently the Comptroller of the Treasury, as is usual in such cases, has issued his instructions to the different Collectors, directing the mode in which their accounts are to be kept, and the duties to be calculated. And, in these instructions, he refers to the circular before mentioned as his guide, and directs the manner of stating the accounts according to the principles as he understood them to be settled by that decision.

The circular letter of the Secretary of the Treasury stated that the rate of duty on manufactures of cotton, or of which cotton should be a component part, were to be ascertained according to the act of the 14th of July, 1832—in other words, that the amount of duty on the 31st of December, 1833, payable on these articles, was to be ascertained on the minimum principle, and the reduction, under the act of March 3, 1833, to begin from that point. The circular also prescribes the manner in which the amount of reduction is to be ascertained.

The rules then laid down have since been considered as the law of the Department; and if there be any discrepancy between the instructions of the Comptroller and the circular letter of April last, before mentioned, it has arisen from oversight on his part, and will, no doubt, be promptly corrected. The present Secretary of the Treasury has given no decision whatever on the subject. The construction of the law was settled at the Treasury, and, we believe, rightly settled, by the proper authority, before he came into office.

We have hastened to lay these few facts before the public, that the parties interested may be satisfied that nothing has recently been done to change the construction heretofore given to the law; and that it is intended to be administered, as far as the Treasury Department is concerned, upon the principles which have long since been made known to them; that is, by calculating the duties according to the minimum principle, and making the deduction in the manner prescribed by the circular above mentioned.—Washington Globe, January 13.

Extract of a letter to the editors of the Washington (Pa.) Reporter, dated

"This withdrawal, then, of the public deposits, makes it absolutely necessary for the Bank, as a matter of self defence, to curtail its discounts and prepare for the worst. Unexampled efforts have been made use of to effect its destruction, and its safety, and the interests of the stockholders, demanded that it should be guarded on all sides, and at all points. One example will suffice to show the necessity of its preparation at all points, and the spirit with which it is persecuted by a set of sharpers in Wall street, New York:—One of the brokers in that city, for the last five or six months, has been quietly gathering all the notes on the Branch Bank at Savannah, with a view of making a run upon that office under a hope of being able to compel them to refuse the payment of specie. With this view, he lately presented at the counter the enormous sum of three hundred thousand dollars, and his wishes would have been accomplished, had it not been for the prudent foresight of the officers of the mother Bank. They were prepared for the onset, and were led to make the preparation in this way. They had agreed to redeem the notes of all their branches, and observed that some of the notes of the Savannah Branch for the last five or six months had not been presented for payment, and concluded that some game was playing that they could not fully understand. They, therefore, immediately shipped off two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in specie to Savannah, and thus the Branch was able to redeem its notes, and defeat the conspiracy formed to effect the destruction of its credit.

This fact shows the absolute necessity of the course adopted by Bank—all the other banks are compelled to adopt the same course, and thus it is that the removal of the deposits, and the persecuting spirit: which has pursued the Bank have produced the evils which are so much the subject of complaint. I cannot withhold the expression of my concurrence in opinion with the late Secretary of the Treasury that the removal of the deposits was "inexpedient, vindictive and unjust!"

The preamble to the Norfolk resolutions expresses good feelings and sound doctrine. Differing as men must and will on minor points of national policy, they can yet, without any sacrifice of principle, unite on the more important point of preserving the Constitution and laws inviolable.—What are the temporary triumphs of party; the elevation of particular men, or the gratification of individual feeling, compared with the maintenance of our Republican Institutions in their original purity? Shall we amuse ourselves with straws, whilst matters of the greatest importance to ourselves and posterity, demand our attention? As a free people we should resist usurpation, be the aggressor whom he may. The chains of slavery and degradation are not the less galling, because rivetted by the hands of a popular chief; and none but those who deserve to be menials will quiety submit to the operation. We are rejoiced at this momentous crisis, Virginia is exhibiting her usual attachment to republican principles, with a patriotic spirit that must strike terror to those who are attempting to mould our Republican Government into a despotism. She speaks in a voice that will be heard, and must command respect, notwithstanding the attempt to stifle it may be made by the contemptible partisans of the Kitchen. But, whatever may be the effect of public opinion upon the President, it will not be lost upon Congress. That body will hardly dare to act in opposition to the will of their constituents, and to the interests of the country.—Balt. Chron.

Correspondence of the Baltimore Patriot.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11th, 1834.

It seems uncertain whether the Resolutions now pending in the Senate, will be referred to the Committee of Finance, or acted upon by the Senate, without such reference. If they should be referred, we shall have Mr. Webster's opinion on the matter, no doubt, in a report. If they should not be referred, it is probable he will think it expedient to give his opinion in a speech.

Mr. Southard alluded to him on Thursday as the man who drew the section, (the 16th,) in the Bank Charter, making it the duty of the Government to keep the public moneys in the Bank, with a contingent power in the Secretary to order their removal.

I understand this was the case. Mr. Webster was a member of Congress when the Bank Charter was granted, and this provision was introduced on his motion. Probably he will, in some way, let us hear his opinion on its recent application, and the conduct of the Secretary under it. He will abandon no principles, nor change any opinion on great and permanent questions, in consequence of any new forms or combinations of parties.

If he does not pitch his tone of opposition so high as others, it is probably because he thinks nothing is to be gained by exasperation, inasmuch as the country is to be saved, if saved at all, by the good sense and patriotism of some of those who have been friends of Gen. Jackson.

MR. BARRY AND HIS LOANS.

The 2d clause of the 8th section of the 1st article of the Constitution gives to Congress the power "to borrow money on the credit of the United States"—but as they have passed no law authorizing the Post Master General, as their agent, to borrow the $400,000, which he states he has obtained on loan—has he not violated the Constitution, and is he not, therefore, liable to impeachment?

As there is no mention made in his annual report of the receipt or disbursement of these $400,000, and as that report should contain all the operations of his department, and show all his receipts and disbursements, from whatever source derivable, is not such suppression of fact and truth, sufficient cause to institute an inquiry by Congress?

Is it not the duty of the President to recommend to Congress an immediate and rigid scrutiny into all the affairs of the Post Office Department?

If the Post Master General borrowed this enormous sum without the knowledge and approbation of the President, has he not, in so doing, worked a constitutional forfeiture of office?

If he borrowed it with the approbation and consent of the President, has not that high officer, by such connivance at a violation of law and duty, by a subordinate, subjected himself to impeachment?

The Post Master General is bound by the act of March 2d, 1799, to "once in three months render to the Secretary of the Treasury a quarterly account of all the receipts and expenditures in the said department, to be adjusted and settled as other public accounts." Has he done so? If he has so settled, has he included the before mentioned loans in such settlements? If so, why conceal them from Congress until they were extorted from him by the "searching operation" of the Senate's resolutions.—Com. in Balt. Chron.

Alabama.—The Washington Examiner of Saturday publishes the correspondence between Governor Gayle of Alabama, and Mr. Key, the U. S. Agent, who was sent to arrange the difficulties in that State, in regard to the removal of the settlers on the Creek lands. The controversy, so far as the removal is concerned, is at an end. The engineers and agents of the U. States, will have so far completed their surveys and locations, by the 15th of January, the time limited for the intruders to remain, that the lands intended for the Indians will be laid off in large bodies, leaving a subdivision to remain hereafter, and all portions, lying without these reservations, will be released from the provisions of the treaty, and the operation of the orders of the Marshal. Those among the settlers, who may be found upon the Indian reservations, will have it in their power to purchase the rights of the Indians, whose lands they occupy, and an agent will be appointed by the President, who may be daily expected, to certify all such contracts, according to the provision of the treaty. So that every settler, so situated, will have the option either to purchase the Indian's title, and remain, or leave the land for others to purchase.

Cotton Minimums.—The haste with which the act, known as "The Compromise Bill," was passed last year, rendered it impossible so to adjust its details, as to make it what it was intended to be, a certain but gradual reduction of the duties of protection, including therein, and as a most essential part thereof, the principle of a minimum price.—We said when the law was first promulgated, that, such was the looseness of its phraseology, and the generality of its provision, that it could only be enforced by the Secretary of the Treasury's assuming the right to put on it such construction as might seem good to him. This he has done—Mr. McLane, in his circular of April 20th, somewhat ambiguously, and Mr. Taney, or rather the Comptroller, in a circular of last month, more explicitly—abolishing, by a stroke of the pen, instantly and forthwith, the minimum principle in the calculation of ad valorem duties, and thus rendering a reduction intended by Congress to be gradual and protracted through ten years, immediate in time, and almost total in amount.—N. Y. American.

ENGLISH & AMERICAN MANUFACTURES.

The London Spectator, a paper of great ability, as we have often had occasion before to say, in an article upon the state and prospects of the English manufactories, in connection with the recent report of a Committee of the House of Commons on the subject, make these reflections which our readers will not find uninteresting. The testimony of Mr. Bates will particularly be regarded as—at least—curious:

From the Spectator.

Our principal danger arises from foreign competition. We, at present, by means of our enormous capitals, and the superiority of our machinery, contrive to keep competitors at bay. Even the Americans, with all their energy and enterprize, are made to feel the superiority which the ability to lose vast sums confers upon the British cotton and wool manufacturers. The evidence of Mr. Bates, himself an American, and partner in the House of Baring & Co., in relation to this point, is worth attending to. He says—

"The English manufacturer would send out his goods to America, and sell them at a loss, with no other object than to ruin the American manufacturer, with a view of breaking up the system of manufacturing in America." * * *

"The operation would be in part a combined operation on the part of English manufacturers, and in part the effect of an ordinary cause; that is to get rid of a surplus stock." * * * * "I am sure that goods are frequently brought to us upon which money is required to be advanced, going to America, where the parties expect to sustain a loss."

Sometimes the money is advanced in England, by Houses to whose agents in America the goods are consigned for sale: it not unfrequently happens, however, that an immense shipment of cotton or woollen goods is made to the American correspondents of the English owners of the goods. If money is required to be remitted, without delay, the consignee applies to some extensive auction and commission merchant, in New York, who will at once advance two thirds or more on the amount of the invoice, (supposing it to be fairly made out, according to the market value of the articles in it,) in order that he may secure the usual commission on the sale of them by auction.

The amount of his commission, or per centage, depends upon whether or not he guarantees the payment of promissory notes at six months' date, for which he disposes of the cargo: it varies from 1 1-2 to 7 1-2 or 10 per cent. He advances very large sums on the consignment, which are at once converted into bills of exchange and remitted to England; so that it has repeatedly happened, that bills for two thirds of the goods exported have been on their way back to England, before the goods themselves have been landed, or the necessary papers have passed through the custom house. In this way, the American market is often suddenly deluged with a quantity of British manufactures, to the ruin and despair of the pains taking maker of "domestics." Thus, also, we see that, altho' the American Tariff was the cause of much loss to the British manufacturer, it afforded little protection to his transatlantic opponent. The latter is very much in the same situation that a flax spinner of Leeds, with a capital of 10,000*l*, would be in, were he to enter into competition with Marshall and Company: sooner or later, the mammoth house falls upon and crushes him. Mr. Bates says, that the competition in the United States against the manufacturers of this country, "received a death blow by the change in the American tariff, except as far as the cottons go;" and he thinks that the remainder of the tariff "will go also." It is to be observed, that the cottons which the Americans still manufacture to advantage are only the coarse common goods for domestic consumption. In the finer descriptions, where the value is created almost entirely by the labor bestowed on them, they are utterly beaten out of the market by our super excellent machinery, low rate of wages and profits, and the enormous temporary sacrifices which the large capitalists find it for their interest to make.

How long this state of things can continue, few will venture to predict.—Foreign nations, who possess the necessaries of life at a rate so much cheaper than we can obtain them, whose machinery is constantly improving, and who do not labor under the manifest disadvantages which must for many years obstruct the inhabitants of America in their manufacturing course, will probably become more formidable competitors with us in their own and foreign markets every year.

REMARKABLE WOMEN.

It is worthy of notice that those women whose excellencies have obtained the esteem of posterity, have invariably united to their more remarkable qualities, the gentleness and delicacy characteristic of the sex. Had they not done so, they would, indeed, scarcely have been loved; and love is a sentiment, with regard to the future as well as the present, which ought to be the chief ambition of a woman to excite. She should desire to be remembered, not only with admiration, but with tenderness; and, therefore, in her, nothing can compensate for the absence of those qualities which call forth affection. In looking back, then, upon our celebrated women, it is with pleasure that we remark, that kindness gave the polish to their characters. They were not the stern mentors of society; on the contrary, they were as distinguished for mildness as for any other virtue; and we feel, that besides being the objects of our esteem, they would have been, had we known them, the companions of our choice. Their humility is no less deserving of praise. There has always been an absence of pretension in superior women, which is consistent with our preconcerted notions of what they ought to be, and with our own actual observation. The position which they occupy is conceded to them, not because they assume it, but because it naturally belongs to them. And the influence they exert is of a quiet and gentle kind. In considering the lives of the most illustrious among them, we cannot but be struck with the power they possessed of swaying 'of opinion.—Contrast, for instance, the influence of Lady Russell and Mrs. Hutchinson with ordinary women. The latter may be, indeed, allowed the control in all minor matters—may be supreme in their domestic arrangements—may be petted and indulged; but if their minds can take no higher range, they will either not be consulted in things of greater moment, or their opinion will have no weight.—Yet Lady Russell and Mrs. Hutchinson never obtruded their advice, or made any show of their power—their counsel was asked because it was needed, and followed because it was found to be of value. The influence of such women has not been confined to domestic life, but has embraced and adorned an ample sphere. To say nothing of the effect of their example, the success that has sometimes attended them as authors, may be considered a gratifying tribute to their usefulness. Society will acknowledge the debt it owes to those of them who, as moral and religious writers, have attracted public attention, and so materially affected the tone and habits of their sex. Of this, perhaps, the most eminent example has shed its lustre on our own day.—Mrs. Sanford's Female Worthies.

The President's Levee, we understand, went off as usual. Among the most striking characters were two old Dutch women, lately from Holland, with their short petticoats, thick soled shoes, red stockings, and mob caps. They were quite the lions, and put the foreign ministers, &c., quite in the back ground. The President spoke to them kindly, and condescendingly took them by the hand, and made the proper inquiries relative to Holland, &c.—Wash. Tel.

NEW YORK MARKET, January 11.

COFFEE—There is evidently more demand than there has been for some weeks past, and considerable parcels have changed hands since our last report, partly on speculation. The accounts from Brazil, which anticipate a short crop, have encouraged holders to look for better prices, and altho' some transactions have taken place, they have not been made public. Some parcels of St. Domingo have been sold on speculation, and some for export, amounting to about 1,600 bags, from 11 1-4 cents, cash, to 11 1-2 c. on time; about 400 bags Cuba, from 11 1-4 c, cash, to 11 1-2 c. on time; 150 bags La Guayra, 12 a 13 cents, and 90 bags Triage Cuba at 8 1-4 c. cash. A parcel of 1,240 bags Porto Rico has been shipped from first hands. Imports—1,234 Brazil, and 83 do. Cuba.

DRY GOODS.—There have been no sales of consequence for the last two weeks, but prices are fully maintained. On Canton goods there has been some large speculations, particularly black goods, and yet at former prices. There was some large purchases commenced yesterday in British goods, but the want of confidence in the Secretary of the Treasury's views, prevented their continuance.

FLOUR—The dullness mentioned in our last still continues. A sale of Philadelphia was made early in the week at $5 37, cash; a sale of 400 bbls. Fredericksburg Mountain at $5 75, 4 months.—No other sales of Southern have come to our knowledge except trifling ones of Georgetown Mountain at $5 75, cash. Several parcels of New Orleans superfine, sweet, have been sold at $5, $5 12, and $5 25—the latter price obtained in small parcels. No sales of Indian Meal.

SUGARS—The market continues bare of Muscovado Sugars. Sales have been made of 5 a 600 boxes Cuba, brown, at 7 1-4 a 7 3-4, principally for export—and of some ordinary whites at 9 cts.

TEAS—We do not know of any sales of teas.—The market remains at former asking prices, and excessively heavy.

EXCHANGES—A further decline took place in the rates of bills on Europe, taken for the last packets; the negotiations for cash were at 1 1-2 a 2 per ct. on England; 5f. 60 a 55 on France; 38 a 38 1-2 cents on Holland, and 33 1-4 on Hamburg; on Bremen 76 1-4 a 76 1-2 cents was asked. The rates for paper are in proportion to the present value of money, which may be considered at 1 a 1 1-2 per ct. per month. There have been no transactions as yet for the packets of the 16th inst.

CHARLESTON MARKET, Jan. 4.

COTTON—On Thursday, however, there was considerable enquiry for Upland, and the weather being unfavorable for out door transactions, several lots, in store, amounting to about 1,500 bales, changed hands at the current rates of last week. Yesterday and to day there has been little doing. The transactions of the week have been to complete orders on French and Northern account, our market being still too high for the limits on English buyers. The range of the sales has been principally from 10 1-2 to 11 cts. for good to prime parcels.

RICE—There was nothing done in the article during the first part of the week, but towards the close several lots sold at $2 75 for prime, demand pretty brisk.

FLOUR—There has been very little demand for this article during the week, the sales being confined to the Bakers at previous prices. Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Richmond, $6 a 6 1-4.

The ice on our river was broken up on Sunday night last, by the flood, which followed a two days' rain, accompanied by a strong south wind.

In our own immediate neighborhood, no damage was done to the public works, but we regret to say the whole line has not been so fortunate. Dam No. 2, we are told, was seriously injured by a gorge of the ice that took place just above it. Further particulars we have not heard.—Blairsville Record, January 15.

THE regular publication of this New Paper, under the direction and patronage of the Pittsburgh Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be commenced on the first of February next.

Subscriptions and advertisements may be left at the office of WHITE & GRANT, corner of Wood and Fourth streets. Jan 15, 1834.

YOUNG LADIES' SELECT SCHOOL.

MRS. CROSBY has removed her School to No. 62 Fourth street, in the building adjoining the one which she recently occupied. The increasing patronage with which she has been favored, induces her to flatter herself that her efforts as a teacher have been successful in advancing the interest of her pupils, and in gaining the approbation of their friends.

Mrs. C. gives instruction in the common and higher branches of English Study, in a thorough and extensive course of Mathematics; in the Ancient and Modern Languages, and in Ornamental Needlework, Drawing, and Painting, &c.

For further particulars, application can be made to the teacher, at the school room, or at her residence, No. 138 Liberty street.

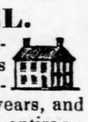
LOUISVILLE HOTEL.



THIS new and splendid establishment, situated on Main street, has been leased of the Louisville Hotel Company by the subscribers, for a term of years, and they feel no hesitation in saying that the entire arrangement of this Hotel, for extent of accommodation, elegance, and comfort, are not surpassed by any Hotel in the United States. Its location is pleasant and airy, and but a few moments' walk from the steam boats. The house contains nearly 200 apartments, most of which have fire places; and has a private entrance, leading to thirty suits of rooms, expressly arranged for the accommodation of families—has also seventy single lodging rooms. The establishment is furnished in the best modern style, and the Wines and Liquors have been selected with great care from the most celebrated vaults in New York and Boston. The proprietors, grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed on the different establishments they have been connected with in the eastern cities, hope, by their experience and personal attention, to gain for this Hotel a reputation equal to any in America. The Hotel was opened for the reception of transient and permanent boarders on the 1st of December.

FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

SATIN BEAVER
HAT MANUFACTORY,
NO. 6 ST. CLAIR STREET,
PITTSBURGH.

WILSON & SMITH, from N. York,

RESPECTFULLY inform the citizens of Pittsburgh and the neighboring towns, that they have commenced the manufacture of the above beautiful and elegant article, so much admired and worn throughout Europe, and the principal cities in the United States.

W. & S. beg leave to observe, that, after various experiments, they have at last succeeded in bringing this Hat to the highest state of perfection, and they can assert, with confidence, that in point of color, lightness, elasticity, durability, and general beauty of appearance, they cannot be surpassed by the most expensive Hat that is made. Gentlemen are invited to call and examine them, and judge for themselves.

Wholesale Dealers supplied at the same prices as in the New York markets.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

UTICA, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of deranagement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S
COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases. and is a pleasant medicine to take.
